Anni Cyrus is an Iranian-American human rights activist, founder of Live up to Freedom, producer of The Glazov Gang and National Director of American Truth Project. Anni was sold for $50 as a child bride in Islamic Republic of Iran. Escaping from her childhood in sex slavery, she found freedom in America. Now an American citizen, she is a leading spokeswoman against the abuses within Islam. She carries a special legitimacy in her advocacy for humanity in general and women and girls in particular, as a former child bride, a legal asylum refugee, an immigrant and survivor. Her goal is to protect and awaken her fellow Americans to the encroaching threats to the freedoms we once held so dear and the dangerous ideological systems that she risked her life to escape.
